Effect of Saturn on Professions

From Saturn, we derive professions connected to iron, coal, mines, petrol, black stones, oil, disease and death.

If Saturn and the Sun are connected to the 10th House (By Positioning in the 10th or associations with the 10th House Lord), then the native can acquire tenders connected to road making, stone supplies etc. A Strong Saturn can also make one a Judge or a highly placed judicial authority.

Various law-enforcement officers, are most likely to have a strong influence of Saturn in their birth charts. A Strong Saturn can also mean business related to iron machinery. If Saturn is connected lord, then it can make the native a big dealer or manufacturer for iron and stones.

If the Moon and Mercury are aspecting Saturn, then it may give some activity connected to petrol pumps or activities related to crude oil, petroleum business and oil related and refining related professions.

Saturn and Mars means melting of iron in the fire (Heat treatment). So, those with the any sort of combination of Saturn and Mars (either in conjunction or in mutual aspect and with some connection to the 10th House) can do well in the metal refining companies.

A strong Saturn can make one a dealer of iron metals. Moreover, Saturn also plays an important role in a native being able to develop a good rapport with the masses. Those with a well-placed Saturn can perform well in areas related to administration and public welfare.

If Saturn and Mars happen to be connected to the 4th House, then activity related to acquiring produce from the land, may be the result.

If Saturn is weak in the Horoscope, then the native may get associated with service oriented work, like the peon, sweeper, postman, etc. A weak saturn gives dependence on others.

Saturn and Jupiter (if in a benefic and a strong situation) can make one an Administrator, Judge, Officers in Academic Institution, etc. If either of these two planets, if in an association, happen to be weak, then it may make one a healer or a compounder in a dispensary. The Sun and Saturn may enable the native to run a Gas agency. If Saturn is connected to the 3rd House, then the native may have business related to the railways and also in making railway tracks or in the railways manufacturing sectors. One can even have transport companies with benefic Sun and Saturn associations. Moreover, the Sun and Saturn combination is also responsible for careers in the insurance sectors. Combination of Saturn and Rahu can make one a Chikitsak

Mercury and Saturn can make one a dealer of goods related to leather. A Saturn and Mars together can make one a Barber. (Saturn for Hair, and Mars related to Scissors).
